Happiness

results from that true contentment which indicates perfect health of body and mind. You may possess it, if you will but gently invigorate your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "I have had for years with serious humors. After using two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It greatly relieved, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kildner, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but they only made him worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

At Home

Sold by all Druggists.

USE Vegetable Sicilian HALL'S HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes them, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks which have become faded with age or disease; and it removes the wrinkles and fine lines and humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases.

IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sanderson, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying to restore my hair, I found that the hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

In the meantime the widow of Gen. Hancock was washed by a raging storm and banked with fog, was as isolated as a rock in mid ocean. The tooting of steam whistles and occasional toots of distant fog bells were the only evidence of its proximity to a great city. The little steamer Atlantic went ashore. The little steamer Atlantic went ashore to end and pier between the battery and the pier on the island, brought over loads of officers in uniform and citizens in dripping overcoats. The privates who were pacing along the brick walk in front of head-quarters, looked disconsolate enough in their wet uniforms.

Saturday evening Dr. Janaway reported that Mrs. Hancock had passed a restless night, but seemed better at daybreak. His grief seemed almost too heavy for her to bear.

Between 7 and 8 o'clock the guard of honor detailed by Maj. Richard H. Jackson, conducted the remains of the General to his final resting place.

The General had been a man of great energy and who cherished for him warm feelings of attachment; were loudest in their expression of grief.

THE EVENING BULLETIN

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1866.

BETHLEHEM, PA., will soon have a new silk mill with 10,000 spindles.

The grand jury at Frankfort at its session last week returned sixty-two indictments, principally against gamblers.

It looks very much like cancer is very much on the increase. The statement is made that it caused half as many deaths in Boston last week as consumption.

The fire record for January is one of the heaviest ever known for that month. The total loss is estimated at $12,000,000 for this country and Canada. Nearly one-half of this loss occurred in sixteen cities. Detroit, Mich., came in for a loss of $1,000,000.

There should not be a reason why public gambling should not be made a felony.—Louis.

Ask something hard the next time please. Of course there's not. On the contrary there are abundant reasons that it should. The Legislature should not hesitate in passing the bill.

One politician has been heard from who has some regard for his promise. Senator George, of Mississippi, told his constituents two years ago that he would not wear a dress coat or ride in a carriage while in Washington, and they say that he has kept his promise faithfully.

The Knights of Labor of California want Congress to forever prohibit Chinese immigration into this country. In view of the recent troubles at Seattle, W. T., it would seem they are in dead earnest about the matter. This country is too good for Hop Ling and Ah Sin—in the minds of the Knights.

The grand jury of Campbell County got after the gamblers last week and indicted thirteen persons for suffering gambling on their premises. Among the witnesses are over forty young men of Newport and Dayton who have been "bucking the tiger" in his den, and listening to the "squeaking of the geese."

MAKE gambling a felony. Strip it of its shreds of respectability. Let the man who gambles look at the world through iron bars, and let the world look at him through the same discrediting medium and young men will not regard the excitement and snap and dash of the gambler's life as sufficiently exhilarating to make amends for the shame of a felon's cell.—Owensboro Inquirer.

The editor of the South Kentuckian thinks a big majority of the present members of the Legislature made a "mistake in aspiring to the present positions." He says many of them are good, clever men who could run a farm successfully, but he has serious doubts if there are thirty Representatives in the House who could frame a bill of the simplest character. This is hard on our Legislators, but they'll have to "grin and bear it."

"We hear a good deal said about honest government. The way to it is for honest men to take an active part in its welfare."—Ripley Bee and Times.

What's the matter with the Bee and Times, anyhow? Isn't it aware that Cleveland was inaugurated last March and that the Democrats now "rule the roost"? Our esteemed contemporary wants to keep better posted on National affairs. Neither do the "honest men of other parties" want to be joining the Republican ranks. If they did their new associates would soon corrupt them.

The Lexington Transcript, probably acting upon the suggestions thrown out by the BULLETIN some days ago, is urging its constituents to offer the Legislature a building site and $250,000 with which to erect buildings provided the seat of Government is removed to that city. That's the way to do business. If the people of Lexington want the State capital removed to that place, they want to act upon the Transcript's ideas and offer some inducements. We have but little doubt that such an offer would be accepted, and we are not caring much how soon it is made. Fayette county and Lexington can well afford it.

Fayette County, with a population of over 29,000, cost the State more than $1,600 last year for examining courts, while Bracken County, with a population of over 13,000, cost the State but $4 for the same item of expense. What's the natural inference from this? Isn't there a "scandal loose somewhere"? The matter certainly needs looking into. In speaking on this subject, the Frankfort Capital says:

"Lawlessness, of course, prevails to a greater extent in some counties than in others, but such a difference in the ratio as is shown above is not justified in Kentucky. The figures we have cited fairly illustrate the differences shown by a comparison of the returns from all the counties in the State. That there can honestly exist such a wide difference between the moral condition of the counties, or the vigilance of the officers of the law, is preposterous."

HON. HORATIO SEYMOUR

PASSES SUDDENLY AWAY TO THE SILENT MAJORITY.

Death Calls Another Distinguished Citizen and Statesman to His Great Reward.
Sketch of His Life—Cerebral Infusion the Cause—The Funeral Tuesday.

HON. HORATIO SEYMOUR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Ex-Governor Seymour died at just 10 o'clock Friday night at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Roscoe Conkling. He began to fail perceptibly at 4 o'clock. Shortly afterward sinking into stupor, he rallied a little, but relapsed into unconsciousness. During his illness he had little if any physical suffering, and Thursday was wholly without pain.

Mr. Seymour, who is very ill, sat with his family during the afternoon. Most of the time the governor rested peacefully, and his condition could only be distinguished from natural sleep by the sullen pulse and the labored breathing. At 8:30 o'clock he was unkonwn, his pulsus could scarcely be detected, and the respiration was more and more difficult.

He died without a struggle, and as peacefully as one falling to sleep. The immediate cause of his death was cerebral effusion, the result of his long and severe illness. Those present when he passed away were Mrs. Seymour and her sister, Mrs. Nelson, New Brunswick, N. J.; the governor's son, Mr. Lincoln; his daughter, Mrs. Conkling; Dr. E. Forbush and Judge Bulwer. It is stated that the compilation of physical ailments which has finally resulted in Mr. Seymour's death, originated with his desire to have his work taken up by some of his townsmen as pathologists, which office, he used to say, was the only one he had ever asked for. Mr. Seymour suffered from vertigo after the sunstroke and never entirely recovered his former strength. He was a strong, healthy man, and pressed to labor on behalf of Mr. Tilden he did so beyond his strength, and seriously weakened his system.

He came to New York in 1850, made some political enemies, and his enemies complicated the wreck of his health and closed his political labors. Mrs. Seymour's illness has of late worried the ex-governor and has caused him much anxiety.

He died at 10:30 o'clock. The funeral will be from Trinity church, Utica, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Seymour was born in Pompey, Oneida county, N. Y., May 21, 1811. When he was nine years of age his parents removed to Utica. He was educated at the academies of Oxford and Geneva, N. Y., and at College Hill school, Maysville, Conn. Studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1842. The death of his father leviled upon him the settlement of a large estate and withdrew him from the practice of law. He became a school teacher. In 1843 he was elected to the state assembly as a Democrat, was re-elected three times, and in 1845 was chosen speaker. In 1847 he was elected mayor of Utica for one year. In 1848 he supported Lewis Cass for the presidency. In 1850 he was nominated by the Democrats for governor, and was defeated by Washington C.attell, the Whig candidate, by a plurality of 22,900 votes over the same competitor.

A prohibitory liquor bill passed in March, 1854, by him and his colleagues, was recommended in 1854. The prohibition question entered largely into the canvass, which was further complicated by the Know-Nothing issue and the anti-slavery agitation growing out of the Fugitive Slave Law. His promise that there would be candidates for governor, and Myron H. Clark, Whig and Prohibitionist, was elected by a plurality of 509 votes over Gov. Seymour.

In 1856 Mr. Seymour was again elected over Gen. James S. Wadsworth by a majority of 10,752 votes. In his inaugural address on January 1, 1857, he said:

"Under no circumstances can the division of the Union be desired. We will put forward every argument of power, we will even sacrifice every principle, we will prevail in every policy of conciliation; we will guarantee them every right, every consideration demanded by the constitution and by that fraternal regard which must prevail in a common cause; but we can not, without a general consent to it, break up the Union of these states or the destruction of the constitution."

Seymour, then, by direction of President Lincoln, telegraphed to Governor Seymour asking if he could raise and forward 20,000 militia to assist in repelling the threatened invasion of Missouri and Pennsylvania by Lee's army; and when General W. W. Wood, commanding the department of the state, wrote a letter to Governor Seymour setting forth that the city of New York was in a dangerous condition, he asked that he might be allowed to form a force of 10,000 infantry. These companies were on their way from New York to Harrisburg. While these troops were absent from the state the draft was ordered to be enforced in the city of New York on July 1, 1861. Gen. W. W. Wood, however, addressed a letter to Governor Seymour setting forth that the city of New York was in a dangerous condition, and asked that he might be allowed to form a force of 10,000 infantry.

These companies were on their way thither from the interior of the state when Gen. Wood telegraphed, July 1: "Please countermand any militia that is ordered to this place. On the same day the draft began to go. The governor immediately went to New York, where on the 14th he issued two proclamations, one calling on the citizens to defend their other fellow citizens in the state of insurrection.

He divided it into two districts, which were placed under the control of military men who were directed to organize the citizens and 3,000 stands of arms were issued to these latter organizations. But he also directed to convey policemen and soldiers to any point on the shores of the island where disturbances were threatened. The government sent all the regular troops in person, and by express, as well as by the force of the forces at his command, sides in quelling the disturbance. During his term Governor Seymour commissioned more than 100,000 men to enter in the service of the Union army. In 1861 he addressed a message to the legislature advocating the payment of the interest on the state bonds in gold, and the refusal of the legislature to meet the popularly demanded value. In August he presided over the Democratic National convention at Chicago, which nominated Gen. McClellan for the presidency. He also presided over the convention of 1865, held in New York.

The leading candidates for the nomination were George H. Pendleton, Andrew Johnson, Thomas H. Hendricks, and Gen. W. S. Hancock. Governor Seymour had positively declined to permit his name to stand as a candidate, on the twenty-first ballot the Ohio delegation, to forestall a threatened movement in favor of Salmon P. Chase, cast their united vote for Horatio Seymour. He was nominated by the national convention in the border of states delegation and on his nomination and every state changed its vote to Seymour, who was declared the unanimous choice of the convention. Gen. Francis P. Blair, Jr., was nominated for vice president. Gen. George B. McClellan and Bair received 2,705,000 votes against 3,016,183 for Grant and Colfax.

Mr. Seymour lived on an extensive and well cultivated farm near Utica, near the village of Westmoreland, president of the National Dairymen's association, and had delivered many addresses before agricultural societies. He was also president of the Prison association of the United States.

From the Home of "Aromanna"

WOOLBURY, N. J., Sept. 18, 1883.
Dear Sir.—I have used your medicine, "Aromanna," for the last two years with great success. As a remedy for liver affections, dyspepsia and malarial fever, I do not know its equal. It does all you claim for it, which can be said of few, if any, other proprietary medicines. I have personally recommended it to all afflicted with either of the above diseases, feeling assured that they will receive the same benefit therefrom as I did.—T. Wm. Milligan, Supt. Public Schools. Have tried Tongaline, in almost intractable tie-douleurous of two years' standing. I find that more relief has been given and a longer interval from pain from Tongaline than from all else that she has taken.—J. A. Larabee, M. D., Louisville, Ky.

Tobacco shipments by the K. C. railroad from Carlisle last year amounted to the following: 2,000 hogsheads of tobacco, 9 cars of sheep, 125 cars of cattle, 83 cars of hogs, 723 walnut logs, 247 barrels of flour, 25 cars of mixed stock—cattle, hogs and sheep.

If a well poised, bœuf to be those who drink thereof. It is worse to poison the fountain of life for one's self and for posterity. Often by carelessness, or misfortune, or inheritance, this has been done. Ayer's Sarsaparilla cleanses the blood, and restores health.

YOUNG man, if you haven't the courage to ask the young lady to take your arm don't size her by the wing and walk her along as though you were a policeman and had her in custody. It looks bad; besides, she may have just been vaccinated.—[Interior Journal.]

The Grooved Picket Fence Company has been organized at Lexington with a capital stock of $12,000. Their factory will start up this week. They will turn out two hundred and fifty rods of fence a day, and already have enough orders to keep the factory running one month.

No other medicine is so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs, colds, and all derangements of the respiratory organs tending toward consumption. In ordinary cases it is a certain cure, and it affords sure relief for the asthmatic and consumptive, even in advance stages of disease.

The Tourist Company arrived in town Saturday evening, and are stopping at the European. We had the pleasure of making a short call last evening and were regaled with some vocal and instrumental music that was really excellent, and far above the average. No doubt they are a clever set of people.

The revival services in the Christian Church are still in progress. The audience last night was one of the largest that has attended since the meeting was begun. At the close of the sermon there were four additions to the church.

Preaching again this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and this evening at 7:15 o'clock. At the latter service, Elder Hawkins will preach from the text, "Is there a hell?"

Death of Mrs. Jane Taylor.

We are again called upon to chronicle the death of one of our old and highly respected citizens. Mrs. Jane Taylor, widow of the late Harrison Taylor, died at her home on West Second street last night at 10 o'clock, after a lingering illness.

She was a lady of most estimable character, and was beloved by a large circle of friends, who will regret to hear of her death.

The Ashland Express, in speaking of the felony bill for gamblers, says: "The bill is intended to reach a class of men who are a pest and a nuisance to every community in which they are found. They are always ready to take in and rob the unwary and all who come within their reach. It matters not with them how many homes are made desolate and robbed by them, so they can make money. Hundreds and thousands of our young men have been ruined through the instrumentality of these accursed humanitarians almost in every community in the State."

JANES' Views on Sectarianism.

In one of his sermons at Cincinnati recently, Sam Jones said:

"God bless the grand old Presbyterian Church. She is a power. And when you get Methodist fire and Baptist water and a Presbyterian engine, hold on to what you have got. Methodist fire and Baptist water make steam, and Presbyterianism keeps you rolling."

"I have not said since I was here a sectarian utterance. If I thought there was a drop of sectarian taint in my blood, I would pull the lancet in and let the stuff out of me. I never was immersed but my wife was and we take on both elements. One of my best friends belongs to the Chirstian Church, another to the Methodist fire and Baptist water, and a Presbyterian engine, and he has taught me to be a Methodist."

The trustees at Wm. King, Jas. A. Curtis and Milton Bramble. They have all visited the school and Mr. King has visited it three times. Of the patrons, Mrs. King and Mrs. Green have visited the school.

The trustees are interested in the school work, as are most of the patrons. Miss Mollie Guerin is teaching her fourth term at this place. She is a careful and painstaking teacher and seeks to improve the minds of her pupils, and consequently does excellent work in the school room.

She writes: "I do not require the exact language of the text-books in instruction."

"Holbrook's Method of Instruction," and "School Government by Jewell," and "Carpenter's Normal Method." Miss Guerin is a good teacher and enjoys her work and has the tact of getting the sympathy of her pupils, and consequently does excellent work in the school room.
